The Atlantic Planners Institute, NL Branch, presented its Jack Allston Memorial Award to CBC Newfoundland and Labrador (shown above with the Allston family) on April 18, 2013 at St. John's City Hall in recognition of their work on the Newburbia series that examined suburban growth issues in the region.

The award recognizes excellent news-media coverage of local or provincial planning issues including land-use, heritage, environmental and other types of planning that have a bearing on our communities. The Award honours the late Jack Allston, FCIP, the first Director of Urban and Rural Planning for the Province. API is the professional institute for planners in Atlantic Canada, affiliated with the Canadian Institute of Planners (www.atlanticplanners.org).
